Campaign Spending: List of Filers

I am running for Congress to fight for, and express my views about, the freedom this country has offered me and that I now cherish. Views that are not usually heard during the campaign season. I came to this country because I value liberty. It seems that people too often take for granted their freedom and do not exert themselves in maintaining it.

Too often people take the easy path in solving problems by just asking the government to take charge. But it is the intervention of government that usually causes problems in the first place. This is painfully evident in health care costs and many other areas. Government intervention has led to exorbitant costs, high overhead, misguided motivation, and inefficiency.

We value education for our children, yet we leave this to the government. We value our income, yet we too easily hand it over to the politicians to spend. We value our security, yet we allow our government to intervene with force in the affairs of other nations around the world.

Politicians do not serve us. They serve special interests at our expense.

It is time to take charge of our own lives. We must seek free markets and greater personal liberty. This will not happen with politics as usual. Don't waste your vote on the status quo. Use it wisely. YOU are my special interest group.
